DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Frank Carew, engineer who for the past few months has been in charge of the construction of dwellings at industrial place, being built by the Fred P. French company, of New York, for the Connecticut Mills company, will leave here next Wednesday for Wilmington, Del., where he is to be project engineer for the E. L. du Pont de Nemours company, one of the great industrial concerns in the world.

Mr. Carew is leaving for French company to take an important position with the Du Pont company, which in addition to its explosive manufacturing business, has extended its interests into many lines of endeavor and is now devoting great attention to important construction projects.

He will be located at the headquarters of the concern in Wilmington and his duties will consist in laying out construction projects and of passing upon kinds and quantities of materials to be used and fixing estimates of construction cost.

Mr. Carew has had a varied experience as a construction engineer. He was engaged for several years in his professional capacity under Colonel Goethals in the construction of the Panama canal and during the war he had charge of great forces of men who labored to construct the cantonments where scores of thousands of this nation's soldiers were housed.

During his stay here Mr. Carew has made many friends who will regret his departure, but who are pleased to recognize the recognition of his talent by such a great concern as that of du Pont.

Tonight's night, Mary Pickford in Captain Kidd, Jr., a wonderful picture production, and The Seven Posing Venuses, presenting one of the finest of vaudeville acts, at the Orpheum theatre.

Traffic was again more or less paralyzed in this territory Thursday, as the result of a strong northwest wind whipping snow into traveled ways that had been opened over the thoroughfares connecting this place with surrounding towns and villages.

Drifts piled into the open ways and blocked them to traffic, this causing a repetition of the disagreeable conditions that communities hereabouts have had to face during practically all of the present month.

The state highway between Danielson and Brooklyn was blocked to all traffic but that which was on runners during Thursday morning and regular transportation service via that route for Central Village, Wauregan and Moosung was suspended. The state highway department had its motor driven plows out clearing up the trouble and these aided materially in restoring conditions to what they have been since the big storm, which has caused more difficulty and inconvenience than all the storms during the past ten years.

It was possible to get to Putnam on Thursday, but the route was rough and drifted in places.

The blow that set in Wednesday afternoon was not long in creating difficulties for traffic. In the early evening three big motor trucks stalled on the drifted highway between Danielson and Wauregan on the direct route. It is again demonstrated that the big motor trucks are a real liability in trying to make trips with the state roads blocked with snow as they are at present. In any event, when the snow comes, it is a real liability.

Dr. Hugh B. Campbell of Norwich will be here Tuesday night from 8 p. m. to 12 m. to confer at the office of School Superintendent Horace Turner in the town hall building, a clinic in the interest of those who are suffering from tuberculosis.

The presence of Dr. Campbell, recognized as an able specialist, is made possible through the generosity of the public hereabouts in purchasing Red Cross Christmas seals. The 50 percent of the receipts retained by the Red Cross seal drive, is now available for the carrying out of such a programme as has been decided upon in making a fight in this territory against the ravages of the white plague, which every year claims scores of thousands of lives in this country.

Tuesday's clinic is to be free open to the public. Dr. Campbell will see all who are suffering with tuberculosis and all who suspect they may be subject to the disease, suspected or not.

PUTNAM

Eugene Boiesvert, familiarly known to the English name of Eugene Greenwood, a man past middle age, was found dead in his room at his boarding place at the corner of Water and Cottage streets at 830 Thursday morning. Boiesvert's failure to come down from his room at the usual hour led to an investigation and the discovery of his rigid body in a kneeling position beside his bed. His face was pale and his hands were stiff. The coroner and medical examiner in their investigation of the case found that Boiesvert had been drinking the poisonous stuff Wednesday evening and fell helpless as he tried to get into his bed. Boiesvert had been dead for hours when his body was found.

He had been employed at the plant of the River Weaving company on Water street. Boiesvert, who had an artificial leg, has worked in and out of the city for years. Coroner Bill, who is also the prosecuting attorney for Killingly, said Thursday afternoon that Boiesvert had been before the local court a number of times to face "drunkenness" charges.

Boiesvert's wife, from whom he had been apart, is said to be a resident of Putnam. A reward will be paid for the purse containing a sum of money lost last Saturday in a Putnam bus. Write Mr. R. care The Bulletin, Danielson, Conn.

Charles Conwell of Meriden was a visitor with relatives in Danielson on Thursday.

William Sayles remains critically ill at his home in Elmville.

William S. Hart in "The Money Czar," a feature picture, is to appear at the Majestic theatre on Thursday afternoon and evening.

At Wauregan Wednesday evening, the wife of Miss Jennie McKiernan, 28, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert McKiernan, occurred.

Rev. J. C. Mathieu, pastor of the Methodist church, at Wauregan, has met with success in his recent effort to raise a fund that will be used toward liquidating the debt of the parish, which is in a flourishing condition.

Lumbering operations in this part of the country are practically at a standstill as the result of the adverse weather conditions that men in this line have had to face during February, the worst month for such operations in many years.

The temperature dropped to 10 degrees above zero during the early hours of Thursday morning, recording thermometer at Woodward's store showed.

PUTNAM

George Tattson, colored, for a long period a resident of this city, died of pneumonia Thursday morning. Mr. Tattson, formerly lived at Lebanon, this state.

J. Herbert Smith, who was stricken with pneumonia a few days ago, died at his home in Putnam, this state, Thursday afternoon, as reported Thursday afternoon as remaining dangerously ill.

Louis Wolfe has been appointed administrator of the estate of his brother, Joseph Wolfe, who died recently.

The March term of the superior court will begin here next week, following the short calendar session to be held this morning.

Another traffic tieup followed in the wake of the gale that raged during the early hours of Thursday morning throughout all of this section of the country. Even the railroad trains were hampered by the great quantities of snow that was blown in upon the tracks and one passenger train due here from Boston shortly after 10 o'clock arrived nearly six hours late, after being stalled in the snow near East Thompson. Conditions began to grow bad during Wednesday afternoon and it was midnight before the Boston-New York express, due here at 7:15 p. m., from Hartford reached this city. This train was held up by drifts on the line near Manchester.

Highways that had been broken out and made passable for travel since the storm of February 4 were again blocked by drifts on Thursday. Milk, that usually arrives here from various parts of Woodstock in time for shipment on the early morning train for Boston could not be gotten through to this city by milk until noon, and all of the rural mails were delayed.

Between Putnam and Danielson efforts were made to keep this important line open and this was accomplished. At some points along this route, however, there were heavy drifts and the snow shovel brigade was called out to get through to make the road passable for travel.

All but a few of the motor trucks that have been kept in service to supply the needs of the city and this section were withdrawn from the regular runs on Thursday. The food trucks managed to struggle through, however.

Around the city paths that had been opened with difficulty were filled level full with fresh snow blown about from the surrounding countryside, and the snow shovel brigade was again forced to get out and tackle a job that has become very irksome.

In the town of Thompson the drifting snow played havoc with the open transportation lines and practically all of the roads will have to be broken out again.

Town officials are viewing with alarm the manner in which the coats for shoveling snow are piling up. In Windham county towns many thousands of dollars are spent each year for snow shoveling and at the end of the county alone it is likely that the cost of shoveling snow and pushing out of the highways with plows will cost the town and state not less than $10,000 for the month of February and it may reach much higher figure.

The snow shovel brigade to Providence has been blocked since February 4, and it is also next to impossible to get through over the highways from this city to Worcester and Springfield.

The long continued blockade is the cause of an accumulation of troubles and inconvenience. As to this it may be mentioned that the owners of live stock who buy hay to feed their animals are having difficulty in getting this commodity for them, as the roads to farms where it may be purchased are impassable.

The letter of appreciation authorized by the common council to be sent to the Danielson fire department and also the check of $20,000, in token of appreciation, has been sent to Danielson. Newspaper comment by a publication in the neighboring town created a ripple of complaint as related to the size of the sum appropriated, but an apology has been made for the tangle and it is now conceded that everything has been ironed out pertaining to the case—and that all is well that ends well.

There is Woodstock interest in the announcement of the sudden death in New York of Miss Henrietta Williams, a city to Worcester and Springfield.

Miss Williams formerly lived in Woodstock, where her parents owned what is now the Congregational parsonage. Miss Williams was a niece of the late Dr. George A. Bowen.

Here is a sample of the difficulties that Putnam manufacturers are experiencing in getting their goods through from other New England cities during these days of snow blockade: A shipment of yarn, by express was sent out of Woodstock to Worcester on Wednesday. It came to Putnam, but time could not be given to unloading it from a passenger train running late. It was carried through to New London and then back again, arriving here Thursday morning. By the overland route Woodstock is only a little more than a score of miles away and ordinarily a truck would bring the yarn from that city to Putnam in a little more than two hours.

Mrs. D. B. Angelo who fell on the street near the rooms of the Salvation Army, is a patient at the Day Kimball hospital.

Lenten services are attracting large congregations to St. Mary's church.

STONINGTON

The assessors of the town of Stonington, and James R. MacColl, secretary and treasurer, and W. B. MacColl, assistant treasurer of the Lorraine Manufacturing company, were in consultation on Thursday, relative to the exemption of the proposed building addition to the branch plant at Pawcatuck. The matter of granting exemption for ten years was discussed at the recent town meeting and it was voted to apply a half rate of taxation to the proposed new building. Both parties discussed the matter thoroughly and, so it is said, an amicable solution was reached. It is therefore probable that the new work will be located in Pawcatuck and not Pawtucket where the main plant of the company is situated.

Reconstruction work in France will be the subject discussed by Miss Florence Valentine at the next meeting of the Stonington Travel club. She was a member of the Smith College unit in France. She is sister of Robert Valentine, of Westerly.
